æcté d'wesetilk d'ÿe grande wealht d'commune dek Lk'esoeseak-Iboroseõ

The Twenty Ninth day of July, Twenty-Hundred and Two AM

AN ACT to upgrade the Ulster-Scots (Ulstér-Scotch) language from a “State protected Language” to an “Official Language” of the Great Commonwealth.

Should it be enacted by the will of the majority of the people of the Great Commonwealth of the Ibrosian Democracy, this Bill shall be passed into law with the particulars stated herein:

Whereas under Part Seven (The National and Culture), Article IV of the Constitution Act 2001, Iboroseoan and English are recognised as ‘Official Languages of the State’ and,

Whereas this administration has constantly maintained, under a statement by the Ministry of Culture, that the Latin and Ulster-Scots languages are recognised as ‘Protected Languages of the State’ and,

Whereas Ulster-Scots is presently more widely spoken in the Great Commonwealth than the Iboroseoan language

Then Therefore, The Ulster-Scots language shall be upgraded to an ‘Official Language of the State’ (1) and enjoy the same status and usage as the Iboroseoan language enjoys under the Constitution Act 2001. (2)
